FLOWRA

From Complexity to Control

We help vending companies optimise routing and automate services

Developed together with vending operators

Reduces costs by up to 30%

Sound familiar?

Start every day with the right plan in place

Flowra enables teams to identify service needs, allocate operators, optimize routes, and prepare inventory - ensuring a structured and efficient start to every day.

Smarter planning

Dispatch coordinators can focus on high-value decisions while routine route planning happens automatically.

More efficient visits

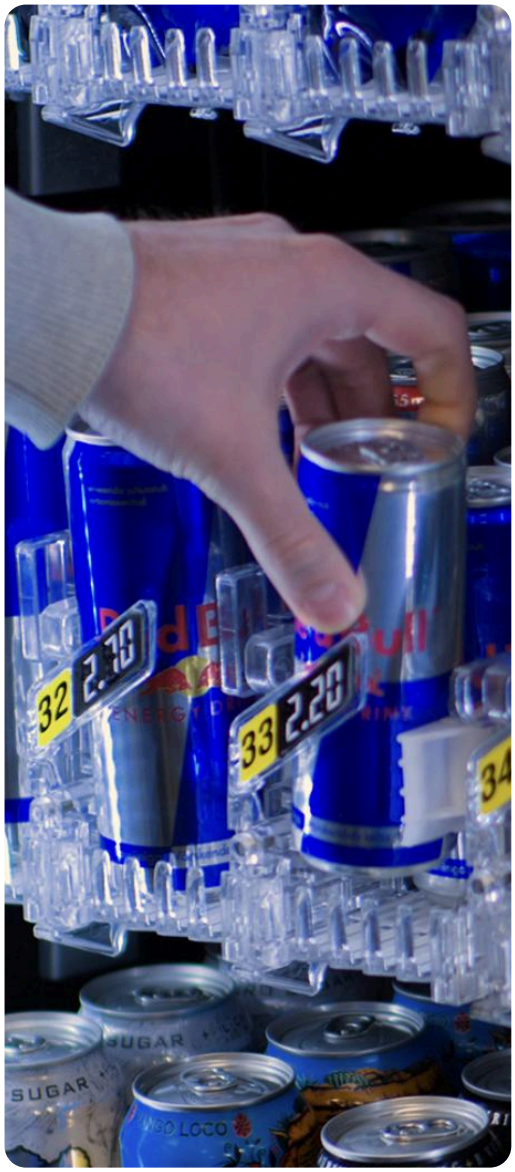

Operators are guided to the right machines at the right time - reducing unnecessary stops and improving service accuracy.

Right stock, all the time

With accurate pre-kitting, teams arrive prepared - minimising repeat visits and keeping machines fully operational.

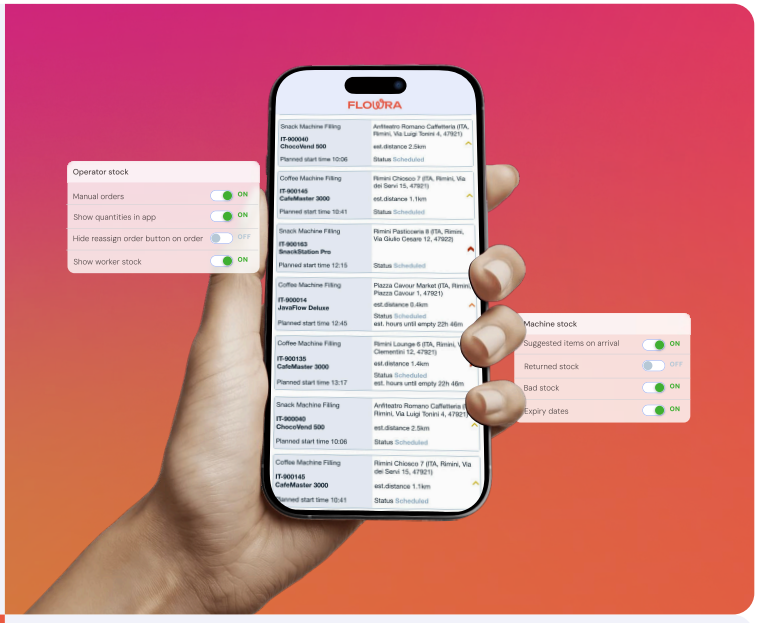

Scaling without complexity

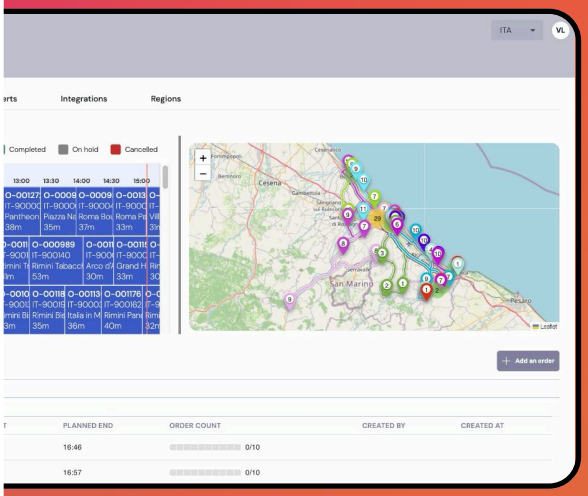

As your network grows, planning remains streamlined — enabling expansion without increasing administrative workload.

Everything your operators needs — on mobile

Each operator receives a structured task list, optimized routes, and clear priorities before the day begins. All information is centralized - enabling faster execution, fewer errors, and full operational control in the field.

See your routes in real time

Track all routes, stops, and operators in one place with live updates. Flowra provides clear, optimized plans and full visibility - making it easy to manage changes and keep operations running efficiently.
